

Laura Subrin Yeager is the founder and director of Texas Educators Vote (TEV), which fosters a culture of voting in Texas public schools. Laura was also a founder, and remains a board member, of Texans Advocating for Meaningful Student Assessment (TAMSA), a grassroots organization of parents advocating for reduced focus on high stakes standardized testing. In 2018, Laura co-founded Just Fund It TX, a statewide parent and student group advocating for increased state funding for Texas public schools. She has worked in government relations, economic development, international market research, and international trade and education policy. Laura earned a B.A. in Government from Cornell University and an M.A. in International Affairs from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS). Before moving to Texas in 1998, Laura lived in a variety of cities across the US and overseas. She speaks Spanish, French, and some Italian. Laura's work is driven by the belief that public education and civic engagement are central tenets of a strong democracy and key to a better and fairer world.
